PROPHETIC VISION OF 1860

J. Morrison Downing, an educator, teacher and a minister of the Christian church, and the only college graduate in Morgan county at that time, delivered a sermon at the White Oak church about 1860 from the following text: "God Reveals A Man Requires." Custer Jones remembers that Rev. Downing said in substance:

God makes known to man such things as he needs. At this time you are heating your houses with wood, but each year the wood is farther to haul, and there will be a time that you will be unable to depend on wood for your fuel. When this time comes God will reveal some other method that will supply and take place of the wood.

You are now hauling your wood with ox teams; they are sufficient now because you do not have very far to haul as the woods are close. But there will be a time that these oxen will be too slow, the distance will be farther and the demand greater, and God will reveal to man some other method of transportation that will take the place of the ox team, that will meet the requirement of the date that is required of man.

You are now building your houses of wood, making your furniture from wood, cutting a fine white oak tree and making boards to cover your buildings. These board trees are getting scarcer each year and at some time the supply will be exhausted, and God will reveal to man some material that will take the place of the wood, houses, wooden furniture and wooden roofs. As it is required, it will be revealed to man.

You transport your merchandise from railroad stations to your local merchants by oxen and far axle wagons. As the country becomes heavier populated and the demand for additional merchandise increases, the ox team will be inadequate and God will reveal to man a way of transportation in keeping with the

May Carnival Raises $428 for Pool; Miss Gabbard Crowned May Queen

Swimming Pool To Be Dedicated And Opened May 30th

Gross proceeds of $428.05 were received at the May Festival held in the high school gymnasium here Saturday night to raise funds for the swimming pool built in West Liberty last year.

This amount, plus $95 cleared at the junior-senior banquet and $113.65 obtained at a sponsored show at the theatre, brought in a total of $636.70 for the swimming pool.

Of this amount, $100 was deposited for expenses in opening the swimming pool May 20, and the balance of $536.70 was designated to be paid on the swimming pool note.

The swimming pool committee now considers its financial problem solved. Revenue from admittance fees to the pool, it is said, will liquidate the balance owed on the pool in two or three years.

Approximately 500 people attended the festival and enjoyed an evening of entertainment put on by various groups that cooperated in the project.

The program consisted of the selection and crowning of a May Queen, a May Pole dance and a variety of booths, contests and drawing.

Voting for the May Queen brought in $223.06 as the biggest contribution during the evening. Miss Carolyn Gabbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gabbard, won the May Queen contest and was crowned by Miss Sally Arnold.

Sheep Breeders Will Have 2nd Pay Day In June from Lambs

Morgan county sheep farmers will be marking lambs the middle of June, and the price prospects look bright at this point, says County Agent Carl W. Sinclair.

"Pay Day in June" is not far away for sheep farmers. They received a pay day in May for their wool. The ewes that were shorn last year will shear over $6 worth of wool per ewe and will sell about $20 worth of lambs per ewe. This will return a profit on investment the first year.

Remember if you want to order Western ewes at cost see J. D. Stacy or contact the county agent.

Wool buyers are paying Kentucky farmers mostly 45 cents a pound for fleece wool, the State Department of Agriculture reported. One buyer reported paying 47 cents, the department said.

A price of 45 cents a pound is being paid for No. 1 grade fleeces in Louisville, Winchester, Stanford, Harrodsburg, Taylorville, Frankfort, Owenton, Richmond, Union, Hustonville, Glasgow, Paris and Danville.

Prices paid for No. 2 grade, with small quantities of burrs and seeds, ranged from 35 to 40 cents a pound in these cities.

The Kentucky Wool Growers' Co-operative Association at Lexington advances farmers 30 cents a pound for top-grade wool. The remainder will be paid after the wool has been sold.

27 MORGAN FARMS PRODUCING GREEN BEANS FOR MARKET

It has been a job finding weather and soil conditions right for getting the beans planted, but according to County Agent Carl W. Sinclair, 27 Morgan farmers with 35 acres of beans are off to a good start.

INSISTS: Almost as soon as the beans come up, some beetles come that make roundish holes in the leaves. In slow-growing weather, this damage may become serious, and it should be stopped. But that is easy, merely spraying with Methoxychlor 50% Methoxychlor, sometimes called Marlaie—2 level tablespoons per gallon of water. Or, 1% (or at least 3/4%) rotenone dust may be used. As these holes start from the top side of the leaves, the applications of insecticides are made on top of the leaves.

Usually, one application does the work, but keep watching. Soon after that, the Mexican bean beetle may come. The control is the same as just given BUT the spraying or dusting must be done so as to hit the UNDESIDABLES of the leaves, with upturned nozzles. Do not use a sprayer in which J-4d has ever been used.

At least TWO applications are needed, the FIRST when the first over-wintered adult beetles come onto the beans, and the SECOND, 10 days later. These two applications are usually enough for the planting, but because more beetles may fly to the patch, close watch should be kept, and more spraying should be done immediately.

For these two applications, two pounds of Methoxychlor are needed per acre, or from 50 to 60 pounds of rotenone dust.

CULTIVATION—As with any other crop, cultivation is needed for stopping the weeds. It should be shallow enough not to cut off roots, and far enough away from the rows to injure the plants. Because of the danger of spreading disease that may be present, it is best to stay out of the beans when the tops are wet from any cause.

All growers of TOP CROP snap beans should contact the county agent's office in the next few days to place their name on the cooperative list. There is a $1 lifetime fee to belong to the cooperative and a rubber stamp with the grower's name that is stamped on each basket costing $2. This should be turned in immediately so the county agent can send it to the Licking Valley Cooperative.

COMBS FOR REPEAL OF THE LIEN LAW

SANDY HOOK, Ky., May 10—(From The Elliott County News)—Judge Bert T. Combs of Prestonsburg spoke to a crowd of several hundred here Monday and declared he favored repeal of the old age lien law, full support of the Minimum Foundation Program for education and for expansion of the rural highway program. He spent the morning in Sandy Hook visiting and talking to the citizens.

Judge Combs said, "The first plank in my platform is the Foundation Program for Education in Kentucky."

"If elected I promise to see that the Minimum Foundation Program is made effective and that funds needed will be made available," he declared.

"The great need for school buildings, transportation and salaries of teachers in Kentucky is of paramount importance. A democracy cannot exist unless the people have an education. Our children must have a chance equal to the children of other states around us," he said.

Another phase of education that Mr. Combs stands for is to implement the teacher retirement system in order to help all rural communities enjoy good highways.

A large banner across the street at Sandy Hook, read—"Combs for Governor, Elliott County has 335 Miles of Highways. But Only 14 Miles Were Built Under Governor Chandler. Count Your Many Blessings."

Discussing the State parks he said he was for continuing them as they now are and not for selling or leasing them to persons or corporations.

Judge Combs said he favored repeal of the old age lien law which places a lien against the homes of persons drawing old age assistance. And Combs also cited that no Governor could repeal the law himself, but that he would have to have the help of the Legislature in changing the law. He said he favored repeal of lien law and would work for its repeal. Then he noted that the first old age lien law was passed under Chandler's administration in 1936 and that the lien law was still on the statutes when Chandler went out of office.

Judge John A. Keck introduced Judge Combs. Judge Keck reminded Elliott county of the great progress Elliott county had made in recent years, particularly in the building of roads. Then he explained that funds for building Elliott's 335 miles of roads came from federal and state funds, but that only 14 miles of them were built under Chandler's administration.

Accompanying Judge Combs from Prestonsburg were: Atty. Harris Howard, Jarvis Allen, Barkley Sturgill, Cliff Latta and Fred Francis.

Among the hundreds from Elliott and other places who came to hear Judge Combs was Uncle Joe Waggoner of Newcombe. He is 102 years old. Uncle Joe said, "I came to hear Judge Combs speak." Uncle Joe said he was a Democrat and a Baptist.

Strawberries Selling At $10 In Cincinnati

Strawberries of the Tennessee Beauty variety are bringing $10 a crate on the Cincinnati market. A crate is 24 quart baskets. This price is close to last year's record price and because of good yields some growers in other counties shipping through the cooperative expect to make from $1200 to $2,000 an acre on strawberries, according to County Agent Carl W. Sinclair. So there is a real prospect for "Pay Day in May" for some farmers.

There are no growers in Morgan county who are shipping through the cooperative this year. Walter Franklin and Harry Coffey attended a grading demonstration at Salt Lick put on by Will Farmer of the University of Kentucky extension service.

Few businesses are more at the mercy of chance than farming. That's why it's so good for the farm family to have a reserve in U. S. Savings Bonds.

MORGAN FARMERS START SETTING TOBACCO PLANTS

Some Morgan tobacco farmers who sowed beds in February are ready to set tobacco. County Agent Carl W. Sinclair says Carl Whitaker of Malone plans to start setting this week.

Ira Massie, tobacco specialist for the University of Kentucky, said Mr. Whitaker's beds were the best he had seen in the state. Mr. Whitaker used methyl bromide gas treatment on his plant beds. He has treated his beds twice by spraying with DDT and he plans to spray before setting out his plants to control flea beetles in the field.

Growers who left covers on their beds for the recommended time of 48 hours report excellent results with no weeding by using methyl bromide gas treatment, and there is little danger of potash damage from gas treated beds.

Farmers should be on the watch for cutworms in the bed. A lot of damage was noticed in one bed in the county. Cutworms cut the buds out of plants. One pound of 10% DDT dust to a 9x100-foot bed will control both cutworms and flea beetles. Use 2 pounds of 50% wettable DDT to 100 gallons of water. Use 3 to 5 gallons of this material to 100 square yards of bed or 100 feet by 9 foot bed. The beds should be dusted or sprayed just before setting to control flea beetles in the field.

New Remedy for Wildfire

The first suspected case of wildfire has been reported in the county. This bed is being treated by the county agent with Agr-Mycin (C as the Experiment Station reports this new treatment will control or stop wildfire. The agent has enough material to treat the first four beds actually showing wildfire. This material is new and has been stocked by a local dealer.

To treat wildfire put 4 tablespoons of "Agr-Mycin 100" in 9 gallons of water with the canvass off. This will treat 100 square yards of bed or a 9x100-foot bed. Treat again in about 5 to 7 days.

Thirty farmers are conducting field tests in Morgan county this year with the University of Kentucky WP12-53 variety which is wildfire resistant and a very promising variety which may be released if it shows as well in the field tests as in experimental tests. Farmers may see this and other variety tests at a Tobacco Day to be held by the Extension Service on the farm of Glenn Lacy at Grassy Creek, August 15.

Farming successfully means training carefully, these days. Save to put that bright lad through agricultural college by investing regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds. Since E Bonds return four dollars for three in less than 10 years, you can save enough for three years of schooling and the increase in value will pay for the fourth year.

Wetherbine put the mortgage on your home," he said in declaring he was opposed to the old age pension law; "and I'll take it off," he said. "Wetherbine wants 2% of the salaries of state

HAPPY ADDRESSES CAMPAIGN CROWD

A. B. "Happy" Chandler of Versailles, former Governor, Senator and High Commissioner of Baseball, brought his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor to West Liberty Thursday afternoon and spoke to a filled courtroom, including representatives from several adjoining counties.

He was introduced as the "next Governor of Kentucky" by Alec Spencer who declared "the greatest issue before us in Kentucky is schools." The basic cause of inadequate schools, he said, is due to political control in Frankfort the past eight years.

Chandler at the onset said, "I'm not going to say anything about the other candidate," and throughout his speech he never mentioned the name of Judge Bert T. Combs, his opponent for the nomination, but referred to him several times as "the little Judge." He unleashed a scathing attack, however, on Senator Clements and Gov. Wetherbine, referring to them always as "Clementine and Wetherbine." He also attacked Henry Ward, State Park Commissioner, and referred to him as "Gold Card Henry." He accused Ward of issuing "gold cards" admitting state officials and workers to state parks free.

"Wetherbine and Clementine have got a complete stranger to run against me—the little Judge. I don't remember his name; but they say he passed through the mountain section once." Happy said, referring to his opponent, Judge Combs whose home was at Prestonsburg before he became a Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Chandler declared he was the first governor to build rural roads. "And," he declared, "we'll build more, and we're going to divide the road money fairly between counties."

"Wetherbine put the mortgage on your home," he said in declaring he was opposed to the old age pension law; "and I'll take it off," he said. "Wetherbine wants 2% of the salaries of state

LOCALS DEFEAT IRVINE 11 TO 4 IN SECOND WIN

West Liberty Will Meet Owingsville
Next Week There

West Liberty baseballers with the help of another magnificent twirling job from Steve Hamilton lashed out 11 hits and displayed an errorless day in the field to defeat a strong Irvine nine by 11-4 on the latter's field Sunday.

"Big Steve" continued his onslaught against opposing batters in the Bluegrass as he duplicated his feat of the previous week by whipping 17 Irvine hitters.

Although the Irvine lads garnered four runs off Steve, they were only able to collect three safeties. Three of the tallies, however, crossed the plate when Guy Strong, Irvine first baseman, drove one of Hamilton's pitches for a home run after two mates had taken base via a single and a hit batsman in the bottom of the fifth inning. Incidentally, Big Steve was shaping a no-hitter up until this time.

Irvine chalked up their final run in the bottom of the eighth on a double by Neikirk following a walk to Wolfenbarger.

West Liberty opened the scoring column early in the contest, bunting three walks, a double and a single in the first inning to score three runs. Following this thrust, the locals had little trouble connecting with the offerings of Irvine's Wolfenbarger.

West Liberty jumped into a 10-0 lead after four innings as they combined 4 hits with a base on balls and a hit-batsman to send five runners across the plate in the top of the fourth after tallying 2 runs in the third frame.

The West Liberty club capped their scoring attack in the eighth inning as they scored their 11th run on a 2 base hit, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly.

Fred Blair and Merle Nickell led the West Liberty hit parade, Blair hitting two singles and a double in five tries, while Merle smashed two doubles in three official trips to the plate. Richie Stacy also contributed to the barrage driving in five runs.

The win put the West Liberty nine into a first-place tie for the league leadership with Owingsville, each team having won two games.

Next Sunday's game will be a showdown as West Liberty travels to Owingsville to settle the tie for first place.

Big Steve will be on the mound for the local nine in an effort to up his amazing record of 34 strikeouts for two games. Kiser, an Eastern State College hurler, will probably go for Owingsville.

The West Liberty club will return home May 29 for a decoration week-end game with Mt. Sterling.

OBITUARY

WALDO E. DYKES

Waldo E. Dykes, son of Edson and Lana Taulbee Dykes, was born at Heleehawa March 18, 1933, and departed this life May 6, 1955 in a hospital at Dayton, Ohio after only a few days illness.

He was a kind and obedient son and at a very early age took a deep interest in church and Sunday school and attended the church regularly. On July 30, 1950, during a revival which was being held near his home he knelt at an altar of prayer and gave his heart to God and from that time on his daily walks by life were an aspiration to others in the community. After his conversion he spent the greater part of his spare time in reading and studying the Bible and took an active part in church work in his community.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Dykes, two brothers, Dewey, of Dayton, Mich. Dwight and Edgar of Dayton, Ohio, and Donald Dexter at home, his paternal grandfather, Mr. Ora Dykes of Heleehawa, his maternal grandfather, Mr. Emma Taulbee of Burkhardt.

Funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon at Heleehawa by Rev. B. T. Morris of Caneva, David Prater of Mr. Carme and Danny Joe Howard of Heleehawa.

The Davyboro church composed of Talmadge Lacy, Bill Dunn, W. M. Sewell, Carl Law and Steven Bradley were in charge of the song service and a number of beautiful flowers.

The large crowd present at the funeral and the many beautiful floral offerings showed how much ween in which he was held.

Active pallbearers were Donald Gibson, Edward Miller, Jay R. Miller, Donald Lee Kaur, Ernest Wilson, Leroy Bowling, Roy Crummons and James Henry all of Dayton, Ohio.

His remains were laid to rest in the family lot near the home under the direction of Pastor F. A. Hone of West Liberty.

PEARL E. JONES

Pearl E. Jones was born Feb. 28, 1930, and departed this life May 13, 1955. He was married August 1, 1953 to Joyce Perry. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones of Pomona. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Onis Perry of Ohio. This union was born one child, Phyllis Jean.

He surrendered his life to God in his last hours and said he was ready to go. He was a fine young man and will be sadly missed.

He leaves his wife and daughter, his parents, four brothers and five sisters.

The body was brought back Sunday, May 15, when the funeral was conducted at his home on Lucky by Rev. Bob McClure of West Liberty. Prayer was by Mrs. Martha Johnson. He was laid away in his home cemetery with West Liberty Funeral Home in charge.

HOUSE VOTES FOR 90% SUPPORT ON FARM PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—The House voted 208 to 201 Friday for a return to the Truman farm policy of supporting basic farm crops at 90 percent of the fair parity price.

The Eisenhower administration had junked the Democratic 90 percent fixed supports last year and substituted sliding supports down to 82½ percent.

The vote of 206 to 201 recorded 185 Democrats and 21 Republicans in favor of a return to high support levels, and 172 Republicans and 29 Democrats against such a change from the present administration's flexible price support program passed last year.

Under the present system, price supports on the basic crops such as wheat, corn, rice, cotton, tobacco, and peanuts may be set anywhere between 82½ and 90 percent of parity.

The Democratic bill would make support at 90 percent mandatory. It would also raise price support on dairy products from the present 75 percent of parity to 80 percent.

An air of tension and some confusion filled the House during the final balloting on the Democratic farm bill.

Unofficial counts showed the bill had been beaten before the final result was announced. But then about seven members arose to shift their votes from the "no" column to either "aye" or "present." Several latecomers voted "aye" to help provide the five-vote margin of victory.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson said next day he was "reasonably sure" that President Eisenhower will veto the House-passed Democratic farm bill in the unlikely event it ever reaches the White House.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) also predicted a veto of the bill to restore high rigid government price controls on basic crops. But like Benson he doubted "very much" that the House bill would reach the Senate.

Senate supporters of the Eisenhower-Benson farm program are confident Congress will muster the two-thirds vote required to override a presidential veto of any change in the system.

Representative Hialeck of Indiana, assistant GOP leader, contended the bill was passed because the CIO turned the heat on the big-city Democrat overnight. Both the CIO and AFL backed the bill on the ground that it would prosper depends on farm prosperity.

Several senators, including Sen. A. S. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said they are determined to fight for the bill.

Benson denounced CIO leaders who threw their weight behind the bill, which the House approved by five votes last Thursday. Benson questioned whether the CIO had a "political motive" at heart rather than a "deep interest in the welfare of the farmer."

Six Democratic Congressmen from Kentucky voted for the 90 percent farm price bill and the State's two Republican members—Sider and Robison—voted against rigid supports.

List of Morgan County Marriages, 1823 to 1835

Marriage license records are a great aid in tracing family histories. And Morgan county, being one of the first counties formed in Eastern Kentucky after Floyd, is a rich source of genealogical information. Morgan County Marriage Record Book No. 1, still preserved in the county clerk's office in West Liberty, contains marriage records from 1823 to 1869. The Courier prints hereunder the marriage records in Morgan from 1823 to 1835. Records of subsequent years will be published later.

Morgan county was a part of Floyd county before 1823, and marriages before 1825 are recorded at Prestonsburg.

STATISTICS DON'T HELP (The Lexington Herald)

It is often said that almost anything can be "proved" by statistics, and this seems to be proving true in a "battle of statistics" that is now going on over the nation on the question of farm income.

In compiling facts since the first of the year on the economic health of the nation's farmers, statisticians have arrived at varying conclusions, some showing that the farmer was better off during 1954 than in 1953 and others showing that he is back where he was in 1936 or 1939. The issue of whether farm income is up or down was started sometime ago when a business publication quoted national figures showing that the per capita income of farmers was greater in 1954.

One set of statistics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows that per capita farm income was up $4 from $914 in 1953, which happens to be short of the per capita income of the country by better than $600. The department's figures showed that farm income actually was down 3 percent last year, but the farm population decline 3.5 percent, giving each farmer that stayed on the farm four dollars extra even though farm income as a whole declined. But these figures deal in the totals of gross incomes of farmers. They do not allow for higher costs of fuel, fertilizer, labor and equipment. Net income was not higher. Department of Agriculture graphs show it fell 10 percent in 1954.

A number of factors account for the drop in net farm income. Prices of farm products have declined, almost 25 percent since 1951. Through acreage controls, production has also declined, and the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar also has declined. Through loss of foreign markets, exports have declined by 30 percent in the past three years.

A continued drop in farm population and a continued increase in the national population eventually may solve the problems of farm surpluses and income for those who stay on the farm, say about 1975. But this will not help the 1955 hog producer, who is getting 10 cents a pound less for his hogs now than he did this time last year. It will not help the burley farmer, who is taking a 25 percent acreage cut this year; nor the wheat farmer, who will take a 20 percent cut this year, because of lower support prices and acreage cuts. And statistics showing that farmers are better off in the face of falling prices, lowered income and loss of world markets won't help much either.

PRODUCING PULPWOOD

The South has become the pulpwood center of the nation, the University of Tennessee Extension Service points out. Production of pulpwood in this area has gone up from 1,000,000 cords in 1930 to 16,500,000 cords in 1954.

The report points out further that as the use of paper continues to grow, the paper industry is sure to become even more important to this region and with it the market for pulpwood and other timber products.

"The only way to take advantage of this opportunity is to get ready by planting trees on the rough areas of the farm and by practicing better forestry on those areas already in woods," the U. T. report concludes.

CHANDLER

workers for their campaign," he charged. "And they fire the ones who don't pay. Well, we'll put them all back on—and the ones they keep we don't want," he said.

"I'm going to put the Minimum Foundation Law in effect, and I'm not going to raise taxes. I'll come back and ask the people, 'I'll ask you where to get the money and what you want to do about it,' he said in his comment on schools. The average pay of teachers is only $2,200 in Kentucky, he said, "yet they have five times as much money as I had when I was governor. They want to put the sales tax back on you, but they're afraid of Wetherbine and Clementine and want to sell you a pig and a pork. It's still the voice of Jacob but the hand of Esau," he declared.

Referring to highways again, he said, "The Little Judge says he's going to keep the same Highway Commissioner—we'll, my God! The people can't even get to see him."

Referring to the opposition's claims he had never served out his elective terms as Governor and Senator, Chandler promised, "I'll serve the whole four years, if the Lord lets me live."

He also said he opposed blanket raises of assessments, favored expanding the state park system, and declared he still was opposed to a sales tax.

"And I am going to take Wetherbine and Clementine off the public account, you have had enough of them. I want you to help. And remember, when you go into the polls no one will be there except you and God; Wetherbine and Clementine and Gold Card Henry won't be there."

Chandler predicted he would carry every county in the state, "not even excepting Floyd" he added.

He came here from Paintsville where he campaigned the night before, and went on to Campton. He was accompanied by Frenchie DeMoisey, former All-American athlete.

Before the speaking a sound recorder was used to play "Happy Days Are Here Again."

We lost our ancient style,
Now where are we to go,
We see the future gone,
What will the future be,
With millions coming on,
And much more to see,

times.

You are now cultivating your soil with oxen and, your requirements being so limited, they can do the farm work. But there will be a time when this method will not suffice, and a more adequate system will be revealed to make farming on a basis as it will be required.

When the day comes that the requirements of man become greater, God will reveal to him such things and methods as are required by man.

CIRCUS SNAKE LOST IN 70'S

In the early 1870's, John Robinson's Circus, pulled by mules and horses and pushed by elephants, left the Bluegrass and took off through the mountains to West Liberty. The exact time was July of 1873. They followed the old State Road which began a few miles east of Mt. Sterling, winding through Montgomery, Menifee and Wolfe counties to Hazel Green. When the circus wagons got to where Morgan, Menifee and Wolfe counties join, they left the State Road and came down Little Blackwater creek with its rugged terrain and after traveling about four miles to the east side of the Licking River near the peddler's grave. An unusually large crowd came from miles around as most of them had never seen big snakes, elephants and other animals. The snake did not show and many were disappointed.

It was a common rumor for years that a snake's trail had been seen in the sand while crossing the road. It was thought the snake came out after night and foraged for food, as some farmers in the neighborhood missed their shoats and lambs.

Rolling along, rolling along,
The Bookmobile goes rolling along,
Its motor humming this song.
I'm taking books to the boys and girls,
Boys and girls, boys and girls,
I'm taking books to the boys and girls,
To brighten up their days.
The teacher takes them from the shelf,
For the boys and girls to read.
Then the children take them home
And read them through and through.
Sometimes they make a book report,
Or paint a picture bright.
They often write riddles true,
To put in the question box.
Sometimes a parent reads a book
While sitting by the fire at night.
Then they take them back to school,
And exchange for others there.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tulsa, Okla.
May 15, 1955

Dear Bernard:

It's renewal time for the home paper, and attached you will find our check for $3.00 for another year for my mother, Mrs. Jarrell D. Haney.

Since fishing is the one sport my husband and I enjoy most, we read every word of the Fishing News.

We have just returned from a week of fishing in the upper part of Gibson Lake in Eastern Oklahoma, with not too much luck. For it rained most of the time. I think our luck might have been better had we been using the 3½ pound worms some one used a few weeks ago back there.

Bernard, could it have been the punctuation that led us to believe they were three-pounders?

We, my mother, Lou Conley Day, and I spent a most enjoyable day with Mrs. Malone Lykins several weeks ago. On our way back we stopped in Davenport and had dinner with Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Nickell. It's a real treat when Kentuckians get together, and there's a bond found nowhere else.

Regards to all of our old friends and neighbors, and kinfolk.
Sincerely yours,
Geneva Haney Alexander

GRADUATION AT CROCKETT HELD

Ralph Brown, Save the Children Federation Director, told members of the Crockett graduation class that "good citizens are interested in the education and welfare of children." Educational needs are about the same around the world, he said, but in some areas the resources are not available to meet the needs of children for adequate educational opportunities. It is well known that self-help is the best help, said Mr. Brown. "Study to show thyself a workman that need not be ashamed. Let me encourage you to take new interest in this community and to make the community a better place to live. Continue your education so that you may be better able to be a better citizen."

Diplomas were awarded by Supt. Carl Stewart who told the graduates that education pays and it costs. He said "we must pay for what we get. The income of people is in proportion to their education."

Warren Robbins, director of the Ford Foundation for Improvement of Education said that he had enjoyed his work greatly with the school this year. He mentioned plans for better health and better English next year. Four of the teachers will travel and attend college on Ford grants this summer.

Mrs. Hazel Skaggs, principal, introduced the program and told the patrons how much their cooperation had been appreciated.

About 250 people were present at the Thursday afternoon exercises. Among them were Walton Jones, Bernard E. Whit, Alene Whit, W. T. Robbins, father of Warren Robbins, Simon Williams, Roy Gilliam, Lonnie Ferguson, Forest Hill, Ronald George, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Adams, J. H. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

FIVE RABID FOXES KILLED AT DEHART

The fifth rabid fox to be killed in the Dehart section was killed Saturday by a man at Ledford Dehart. The youth shot the fox after he found it fighting dogs in a field where cattle were on pasture.

Dehart recently had two more to go mad and had to kill them. One of the mad foxes was shot nine days after a rabid fox was killed when they found it fighting dogs at the watering place for stock.

Junior Dehart, who lives on the farm of Joe Stacey near Dehart had a new to a mad recently and had to kill it.

As a result of the prevalence of rabid foxes in that area farmers have had 50 head of cattle vaccinated against rabies by Dr. Randall, veterinarian of Mt. Sterling.

Setting more U. S. Savings Bonds to save Americans is a necessary part of the proper management of the national debt in the present and for all. Buying the bonds benefits everybody, the saver most of all.

WHO STARTED THE OLD-AGE LIEN LAW?

Former Governor Happy Chandler is making a great issue of his promise to "take the mortgage off old-age pensions." This is an attempt to deceive the old-age pensioners into believing that Chandler is against the Old Age Lien Law. But look at the record—

WHO FIRST PASSED THE OLD AGE LIEN LAW IN KENTUCKY?

Answer: HAPPY CHANDLER.

Here are the facts:

(1) Approximately five weeks after Chandler had taken office as Governor, and on February 20, 1936, he approved House Bill No. 427 which was compiled in the laws of the Commonwealth under Chapter 94, subsection 11, page 303, Kentucky Acts of 1936. This law reads in part as follows:

"The total amount paid to any recipient of old age assistance under this Act, shall constitute a lien upon the estate of the recipient."

(2) If Chandler had been against the old age lien law, he could have had it repealed at the next regular session of his Legislature in 1938, but here is the record on that: Uncontrolled forces of Chandler's 1938 Legislature introduced a bill, sponsored by Representative H. H. McGuire, to repeal the old age lien law, which had been enacted in 1936. This was House Bill No.

202. It was referred to Chandler's "graveyard committee," Kentucky Statutes 1, and reported out unfavorably and thereby killed, leaving THE OLD AGE LIEN LAW IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT ALL DURING CHANDLER'S TERM AS GOVERNOR.

(3) Therefore, it is a matter of public record that the old age lien law was supported and passed as a part of Chandler's administrative program, and was law all during Chandler's three years and ten months as Governor. Chandler was first responsible for the old age lien law. This is positive proof he was for it.

IF CHANDLER IS AGAINST THE OLD AGE LIEN LAW, WHY DID HE PASS IT IN THE FIRST PLACE?

Judge Bert Combs did not enact the Old Age Lien Law, and he has pledged that he will recommend to the Legislature and work for repeal of the Old Age Lien Law.

Bert Combs has not and will not deceive the people. He is an honest, progressive young man who was born and reared in the mountains and understands the problems of old age assistance, and will work hard to raise the old age assistance payments.

WRIGLEY SCHOOL ON YEAR END TRIP

WRIGLEY, Ky., May 16—(By Joyce Adkins)—The teachers and students of Wrigley school visited Carter Caves and Camden Park Friday.

Rev. M. B. Whitt attended a conference at Natural Bridge on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lewis and children spent Sunday with Mr.

and Mrs. Hays at Morehead. They had as visitors a few days ago Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan from Ashland and Williams Lewis, Jr. from Sibley, Ill.

Millard Whitt, who is in a Lexington hospital is improving.

Mrs. Barbara Wells had as dinner guests Sunday Dr. and Mrs. Bernal Lewis from Louisa, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brown and daughter Barbara Sue from Morehead, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Rutu and family from West Liberty, Dr. and Mrs. Cohen Lewis from Jackson, who also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Four Morgan Men
Inducted May 12th

Four Morgan county selectees were inducted at Ashland into the armed forces May 12 to fill the May quota. They are:

Elmer Nelson of Wrigley
Darrel Gray Williams of Flor-

ess
Freddie Ison of Moon
David Finch of Insko

Miss Martha Fannin, clerk at the selective service office, announced there will be no call for induction or pre-induction exams during June.

REGISTER TO VOTE
First voters and persons who have moved from one precinct to another since they cast their last ballot are reminded that June 9 is the last day they can register to be eligible to vote in the primary August 6. You may register now and until June 9 at the county clerk's office.

Statistics are always interesting, however, the remarkable part about the result of this referendum was, despite a 25 percent reduction in allotments, the overwhelming support for continuation of acreage controls expressed by the growers.

To me, this once again demonstrated a point I have publicly stressed time and time again. That is, if price supports are to be maintained at 90 percent of parity on basic agricultural commodities, strict acreage controls must be developed and supported by the growers, and, if the farmers are given access to all the facts about this or any other farm program they can be expected to make a wise decision.

The list of those individuals and organizations who should be commended for their efforts to bring about a wide participation in the referendum and to disseminate factual information to the growers on the subject is far too long to be covered in this column. However, I would like to specifically name a few:

Burley and Dark Tobacco Growers Cooperative
The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation
College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky
Agencies of Kentucky and Federal Departments of Agriculture

The Kentucky Bankers Association
Chambers of Commerce
Burley and Dark Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association
Burley Warehouse Association
Farmers Union
Kentucky Newspapers, Radio and Television Station

And last, but far from least, the County and Community ASC Committees, who gave so unsparingly of their time.

It is refreshing and reassuring to those of us in the Congress who have advocated 50 percent of parity price support program on basic agricultural commodities to see our faith in these programs reaffirmed by the farmers by their willingness to accept the necessary acreage adjustments required if such programs are to be successful.

Several group meetings on weight control have been organized by home-makers clubs in Calloway county.

BURLEY VOTE WAS VICTORY FOR THE STATE'S FARMERS

By Senator Earle C. Clements

Recently the tobacco growers throughout the burley growing areas demonstrated their faith in the future of the burley tobacco marketing quota and price support program when a 338,053 vote was cast with 96% favoring a revised marketing quota on burley for the 1955 crop year.

This was a record vote. In 1952, when the last regular referendum was held, 179,000 votes were cast.

Statistics are always interesting, however, the remarkable part about the result of this referendum was, despite a 25 percent reduction in allotments, the overwhelming support for continuation of acreage controls expressed by the growers.

To me, this once again demonstrated a point I have publicly stressed time and time again. That is, if price supports are to be maintained at 90 percent of parity on basic agricultural commodities, strict acreage controls must be developed and supported by the growers, and, if the farmers are given access to all the facts about this or any other farm program they can be expected to make a wise decision.

TEACHING READING IN OUR SCHOOLS

First grade Johnny is learning to read. He stands before a large grader took to a farm yesterday, chart and reads a story about a trip which he and other first graders took to a farm yesterday.

We went to Mary's farm.
We saw baby chickens.
We saw baby pigs.
We saw a baby calf.
We liked the little calf best.

Johnny has had a great many experiences at school like the farm trip. He talks about them. He draws pictures of them. He tells stories about them. The stories are written on big sheets of paper so he and the other children can read about the things they do.

Later in the year Johnny will be given a book and he will begin to read stories about other children. They will all be planned to help him build a background of experiences that will make his reading vital and meaningful.

Susan is also in a reading class. She is sitting holding a small book in her hands. The book has pictures in it and lots of words. She likes the pretty pictures, and she slowly turns the pages to look at them. Suddenly she realizes it is her turn to read aloud, but she has lost the place. The teacher helps her find it again, but she has forgotten what the words say.

She knows that words are made from letters and that letters have sounds, but there are so many letters that she forgets what the sounds are. The teacher helps her say the words she does not know, but she feels that reading is very difficult and she will never be able to do it. Many fears about reading and also school are building up within Susan.

Many first graders have been forced to attempt to "learn to read" before they are ready for it. They must first become adjusted to the newness of school before they are ready to begin reading. Some children require only a short period of adjustment to school and will be ready to read in a short time; others need months to get ready. The good teacher, making a thorough study of the children in her class, noting their individual differences, introduces reading when the time is ripe for each.

During adjustment period she provides such experiences as Johnny had. She surrounds them with bright books and interesting objects to excite their curiosity. She teaches the children to follow simple directions as they color, paint, or model. Her room is an attractive, inviting place. When the children begin to read, they make rapid progress because they will be ripe for experience.

A good reading program provides for development on four levels. (1) It develops skill in word recognition. (2) It provides varied means for practical use of reading. (3) It teaches appreciation of good literature. (4) It develops ability to draw inferences and to interpret what is read.

Word recognition begins in grade one. Johnny, to each begins gradually to train his eye and ear to catch the sounds of all words and letters and Johnny begins to discriminate between words on the basis of those differences in the way they look as well as sound.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FISHERMAN'S PARADISE

The Courier—

Find enclosed $3.00 for one year's subscription to the Licking Valley Courier. I think I have borrowed it long enough. (I borrowed the paper all winter from Fal Wells in Florida.) I am enclosing a picture of our fishing party taken on the famous Sunshine Skyway bridge across Tampa Bay from St. Petersburg to just north of Bradenton. This bridge is 15 miles long. We did lot of fishing from it. About four of us go in a party. Three pay the toll, $1.75, and the driver takes us out three or four miles and lets us out, then he takes the car off the bridge and either walks back to us or fishes near the shore and comes back after us a few hours later.

Fishing was really good there from about the middle of February to April. The fish come from somewhere, nobody seems to know where. The fish in the picture is a snark. Rollie Wilson is on my right and a man from North Dakota, trying to hold it up. It was six feet long. Didn't weigh it as I cut it open to kill it and put it back overboard. It had three young sharks unborn in it, about 20 inches long. We caught live sharks that day.

We had a gaff hook and rope and it took three of us to pull this one up on the bridge. The bridge is about 20 feet above the water at high tide. We would catch the smaller fish weighing from two to six lbs. and hold the first one near the top of the water. The other fish would swim around it, evidently trying to see what it was eating. Then the other fellow would put his hook down and catch one, and as long as we would keep one fish at top of the water we could catch lots of them.

My wife and son John E. Davis saved on the east coast until Jan. 1. Ray and I and Ethel Mae Davis and I caught 11 fish in a half day about three miles out in the ocean, weighing 85 pounds.

I think this is enough to tell you to make you want to go fishing.

JOHN E. DAVIS

Thank you so much for printing my ad in your paper.

Again I'll say thank you. I found James Spencer after 22 years search.

Traditional Cross Designs Go Modern on Panel Doors

Many modern ponderosa pine panel doors carry the sign of the cross in their design, a tradition that began hundreds of years ago, when divine protection was sought for the entrance to the house.

The numbers have been assigned by the U. S. Department of Commerce in its Commercial Standard CS120-48. Doors may be ordered by these stock numbers.

Five variations of the cross symbol are illustrated here: the tall, slim Latin cross (N.D. 600), the X-shaped St. Andrew's cross (N.D. 612), the square Greek cross (N.D. 605 and 598), the T-shaped Egyptian cross (N.D. 591), and the cross of Lorraine (N.D. 110).

Panel doors of ponderosa pine without the cross design also are available.

Chemical Guards Stock Windows Against Weather

A major advantage of stock ponderosa pine windows is that they have been treated with a water-repellent preservative, which soaks into the wood and toughens it against harsh weather.

Frames for picture windows, which do not open and consequently are simpler to manufacture, sometimes are made in small local shops. These frames are rarely treated, because the shops do not have the necessary equipment.

The water-repellent, preservative chemical practically eliminates warping, decaying, swelling, and shrinking. The treatment has no effect on the window's appearance or its ability to take paint or varnish. Ponderosa pine exterior panel doors are similarly treated.

TO CLEAN WICKER

Wicker furniture should be washed out of doors. Brush it with a stiff brush, then dip the brush in lukewarm soda and go over the entire surface. Rinse thoroughly until the last trace of soda is removed and wipe as dry as possible with a cloth. Leave the furniture in an airy place until it dries completely.

NO HOLIDAY FOR FIRE
Every day fire strikes 95 stores, 97 factories, 1087 homes.

The sign of the cross seen on many modern ponderosa pine panel doors has been used on doors for hundreds of years. The numbers are those used by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

You've often read or heard references to savings as a "nest egg" for your future. The treasury Department reminds us that china nest eggs don't grow into chickens, whereas money put into series E savings Bonds can grow for nearly twenty years. And you can count your chickens before they are hatched: the cash values for each six months are guaranteed in advance by Uncle Sam.

The payroll savings plan for buying U. S. Savings bonds began in private industry in August 1938. Today around 9½ million wage and salary earners in this country are buying series E Savings Bonds on that plan.

Warning to All Americans:

YOUR HOME IS WITHIN EASY RANGE OF RED BOMBERS

Today flying time from Russian bases to the furthest point in U. S. is only a matter of hours

If you ever had any notions about Russia being remote, take a good look at the picture on the left. Quite a shock, isn't it, to see that an insignificant few hours is all that separates you from Russian air bases? And, perhaps more startling yet is the recent news that the Reds have well over a thousand bombers capable of blasting critical targets in all parts of the continent.

Our Air Force is on the job night and day. But to successfully meet such an attack, the Air Force must have an early warning. Unfortunately, as huge as our Radar network is today, it can not be fully depended on to give this all-important early warning. Low flying planes can best be detected by human eyes and ears. That's where the Ground Observer Corps comes in!

Now thousands of Americans wear the silver wings of the Ground Observer Corps and are serving two hours a week at some spotter post or air defense filter center. They need your help. Won't you volunteer now for this vital civilian arm of our air defenses and join these patriotic men and women who are protecting your home and your country?

Strawberry Production Rising in Eastern Ky.

East Kentucky is going into strawberry production in a big way.

That was revealed in a Kentucky Department of Agriculture survey released last week.

The Big Sandy area—including Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Lawrence, Pike, Perry, Estill and Wolfe counties—will have between 400 and 500 acres for harvest in 1956. This year they have about 90 acres, which should yield from 75 to 85 percent of normal. Normal in Kentucky is about 200 crates to the acre.

The 400 to 500 acres won't be harvested this year, because best production is obtained when the plants are not allowed to produce berries the first year. The blooms are picked off so that the plants can grow strong and spread before producing.

The total Kentucky strawberry crop this year should yield about 278,000 crates of 24 quarts each, the survey forecast. That is up sharply from the 39,943 crates harvested last year.

There will be a total increase in acreage harvested this year of about 1,700 over last year and about 4,560 acres of new plants will be ready for the 1956 harvest. That represents an increase of 66 percent over 1954, the survey showed. Some 3,715 acres will be harvested this year.

There is some concern as to just what kind of market berries will find this year. Officially the berry crop from the whole country is forecast at 14 percent above a year ago. However, some dealers said this does not reflect freeze damage in many parts of the country.

Louisiana, an early shipping state, apparently was hard hit by a late freeze. So far only about 450 carloads have been shipped, compared with more than 1,250 cars last year. Louisiana harvests about 10,000 acres.

A good omen, though, was the fact that berries on the Chicago wholesale market last week reportedly opened at an average of $8.30 a 24-pint crate, up $4 to $4.50 over a year earlier. About the same was true of the Detroit market.

First shipments in Louisville last week from Southern Kentucky brought $10 to $10.50 a 24-quart crate, about the same as the first of the season last year.

Most Kentucky berries producers ship in 24-quart crates while Louisiana and some other sections use 24-pint crates. Some Kentucky producers, however, are changing to 16-quart crates.

Early blooming berries in Kentucky also were nipped by the late spring freeze but the later blooming varieties suffered little damage, experts say.

Areas of heaviest concentrated production in Kentucky include Bedford, with approximately 500 harvestable acres; Greenville, 35 acres; Licking Valley around Morehead, 420 acres; Louisville, 220 acres; Southeastern area near Somerset, 1,075 acres; South Central, around Bowling Green, 700 acres; Paducah-Mayfield area, 400 acres; and Northern Kentucky, around Covington, 160 acres.

Specialists with the department in Kentucky to well located for producing and marketing strawberries. The marketing season here follows Tennessee and Arkansas and is at the same time as Missouri and Southern Illinois.

Local berries can be delivered in excellent condition to markets as far away as New England and Canada. Most of the local production goes North.

Strawberry production is well-suited to numerous small farms in the state which have adequate supplies of labor. Farmers here, generally, have found them to be a profitable crop, they said.

Many a farmer has the cash he needed to buy a new tractor or other farm equipment because he put the money away earlier in U. S. Savings Bonds. The average useful life of a tractor is around ten years. In that time $750 invested in E Bonds will grow into $1,000.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The teaching of physical education in public schools aims to build the child's body, to teach children to cooperate with others in a sportsmanlike attitude, to teach them skills they can use as long as they live, to teach healthful living.

In good schools physical education begins in grade one and continues through all school years. The well rounded program occurs in a clean, well-ventilated gymnasium equipped with shower dressing rooms, adjoining play area, and is carried out by a qualified teacher.

The Health and Physical Education code of Kentucky states that every child should have a period of physical education in the daily school program and one semester of health in either ninth or tenth grade. In Kentucky public schools this program is begun in either the seventh or ninth grade.

In the elementary school children act out with various movements a theme, such as going to a fire, they do stunts and tumbling, simple folk dances, catching and fleeing games, stunts, pyramid building, square dancing.

High schools begin competitive games like basketball, soccer, football, football, and dual competitive games like tennis and badminton. This is called the instrumental program, which provides sports in which the whole student body may participate and which also provides the backbone of varsity athletics.

The tensions of living today frequently lead to restlessness in children which terminates often in juvenile delinquency. One out of twelve persons today is suffering from some form of mental juvenile delinquency as well as mental patients receive in recreational activities to release tension and get their minds off themselves.

Giving our children the physical activity they need now, instead of waiting until they receive it in the form of treatment in a mental institution, is cheaper as well as more beneficial for the child, the parents, and the people as a whole.

LANGUAGE ARTS

What has happened to grammar? Do schools teach spelling as they used to? Does Johnny learn to letter or to write? What are language arts?

Confusion has been caused by changing words, but the switch mirrors a change in thought about teaching language. Language arts is simply another way of saying composition, writing, grammar, spelling, recitation and reading. These are subjects that deal with our use of words. Calling them language arts emphasizes that they are all related, all part of one thing. Since studying one without the others wouldn't make sense, instead of teaching them in a separate unrelated manner, teachers now combine them.

When a story or article is written it is necessary to know the correct spelling of words and how to use those words so they will make sense (grammar). The handwriting must be clear so others can read it.

When a speech is made or someone is simply relating a story, the same correct usage is necessary to make the meaning clear. Instead of spelling and writing correctly, a person must speak clearly and use the tone of voice to make his meaning clear.

Grammar, spelling and handwriting taught separately are pretty dull and consequently difficult to learn. They seem meaningless to the child who cannot look ahead and see their importance. But when the child is trying to explain something either in writing or aloud, he wants to know how to do it. He has a reason to learn. When a child realizes that using correct grammar and spelling are as important in getting a job done well as using the right wrench or screwdriver, he is ready to acquire that knowledge.

The teacher makes the spelling list from words the child can't spell on his papers. The grammar lesson is built from the work of the paper or speech where the teacher sees the particular difficulties each child has. Grammar is learned as the child needs to express himself. He doesn't learn the rules by memory because it has been found that it doesn't change his writing or speaking habits.

Many hours are spent teaching the sounds of words, the use of dictionaries, and in memorizing tricky words. The words studied are always useful ones.

Younger children need extra time getting their finger muscles to produce legible writing. Since these muscles develop slowly the child learns to letter first because it is easier. As he grows older, he does both lettering and writing. Older children in their writing papers concentrate on letters that can be written and read easily. The beautiful curlicues of grandmother's fluid script are gone with the bustle and fringed sur-rey.

Children write when there is a need to write. Language is part of all school work. Students tell about frogs for science, prepare booklets filled with illustrations about pioneers, write for the school newspaper. Like all people children want to tell about their experiences.

In high school pupils debate, take part in classroom panel discussions, write criticisms of literary works, and prepare research articles in science, history and the arts. Daily recitation in any class is excellent practice in extemporaneous speaking.

Language is not only a means of communication but also a fine technique for obtaining pleasure. The child of any age loves using his imagination to create fanciful stories and poetry, thus introducing himself to the rewarding experience of creativity. Much grammar and spelling are learned because the child wants to make something beautiful that pleases him and others. Some children with great language difficulties can compose wonderful poems when they are allowed to forget the rules for a while. This is an opening wedge to greater learning.

Thus language in today's classroom is as lively as the subject itself, as changing as tomorrow's ideas, and as basic to good teaching as the need to communicate with others.

TOO LATE TO CHANGE PARTY

The following is republished from the Courier-Journal—
In this and other counties a number of Republicans have recently gone to the county clerk's office and registered as Democrats. Their purpose in changing their party affiliation at this time is to vote for Judge Bert Combs or "Happy" Chandler for the Democratic nomination for governor. These good Republicans are going to be disappointed when the August primary rolls around.

Kentucky Revised Statutes provides that: "Before a person shall be qualified to vote in a primary election, he must possess all the qualifications required of voters in a regular election. In addition, he must be a registered member of the party whose ballot he seeks to vote, and must have been registered as a member of that party at the time of the preceding regular election."

Republicans who have changed their party affiliations since the last November election cannot be allowed to vote at all in the next August primary. They cannot vote for a Republican candidate because they are no longer registered Republicans. They cannot vote for a Democratic candidate, because they did not change their party affiliation before the regular election last November. The voter's card will be taken out of the regular file by the county clerk and placed in what the statute calls the "suspended list" until after the next August primary.
